Bluff Lawyer Files To Change Judge In Patrol Site Suit

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Henry Andrae, the lawyer representing the city of Poplar Bluff in its suit against the state Highway Patrol has filed a petition for a change in judges.

Circuit Judge James T. Riley was expected to disqualify himself as is the custom when there is a challenge.

Andrae's petition charges thah the plaintiffs "cannot have a fair and impartial trial" because "defendants have an undue influence over the mind of the judge."

A copy of the petition was given to all the defendants— Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, the attorney general's office, Highway Patrol Supt. E. I. "Mike" Hockaday, the state Highway Commission, and John D. Paulus, director of planning and construction.

Poplar Bluff Mayor Bernard Wheetley and other city officials have sued to get a permanent injunction against the shift of the highway patrol's Troop E. headquarters from Poplar Bluff, where it has been for 35 years, to Sikeston.

Riley rejected a request Friday for a temporary restraining order to halt surveying and bid letting.

Poplar Bluff's suit contends the governor had no authority to veto the designation of Poplar Bluff in a $693,000 appropriation for a new headquarters.

Riley said that according to the statutes, the superintendent can put the headquarters anywhere he pleases. Andrae contended work should have been held up until the legality of Hearnes' veto could be decided.

2 Killed In Weekend Traffic Accidents

Two persons were killed and three were injured in area traffic accidents over the weekend, according to the highway patrol.

Maynard Thomas, 24, of Rochelle, Ill., was killed in a three-car accident at 11:10 a.m. Saturday 12 miles south of Poplar Bluff on Highway 67. Injured in the accident was Kenneth Matthews, 29, of Pocahontas, Ark., who was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff with minor cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred when the Thomas auto, traveling at a high rate of speed, ran into the rear of a car driven by Webster Smith Jr., 18, of Success, Ark. The Thomas car then crossed the center line and was struck head on by a tractor- trailer truck driven by Kenneth Matthews. Thomas was pronounced dead at the scene.

James Taylor, 53, of Bell City died today as a result of an accident at 12:30 a.m. today one mile west of Vanduser on Route DD.

Taylor, a passenger in a car driven by James Green, 20, of Bell City, was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston with head injuries and died en route to a St. Louis hospital.

Another passenger, Viola Taylor, 43, of Bell City, received a broken right leg. She was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

The accident occurred when the Green auto ran off the road and struck a culvert.

A pickup truck and a motorcycle collided at 2:05 p.m. Sunday on Route U in New Madrid. Jeffrey Hall, 12, of New Madrid received injury to his right leg when his motorcycle came up out of a ditch into the path of the pickup, driven by Sam Riley, 47, of New Madrid. Tell Of Deranged Sky Pirates

Passengers Home After Three Country Ordeal

MIAMI (AP) — Their 28-hour, 3,800- mile flight of terror ended, passengers aboard a hijacked jetliner have returned from Cuba with bizarre tales of three "deranged" sky pirates.

They also had words of praise for the Southern Airways crew which landed the crippled DC9 on a foam-covered Havana runway.

Another Southern DC9 returned the 27 passengers and four crewmen to Miami and finally to their original destinations Sunday after an attempt by FBI sharpshooters to halt the hijacking failed Saturday night and forced the emergency landing in Cuba.

All three hijackers were taken into custody by Cuban officials at Havana. Passengers said Cuban authorities also confiscated ransom money demanded and collected by the hijackers from Southern.

"Everyone thought they would be dead in an hour," said passenger Gale Buchanan at a Miami hospital, recalling how FBI agents shot out four of the plane's tires as it prepared for takeoff after a refueling stop at Orlando, Fla.

Buchanan, 35, of Auburn, Ala., who suffered a sprained knee, was one of four persons injured during the hijacking. Copilot Billy Johnson, 37, mayor of College city, Ark., was shot in the shoulder by one of the hijackers.

Buchanan said the hijackers acted in a bizarre manner during the circuitous, three- nation flight. He said they alternately handed out fistfulls of ransom money, forced male passengers to remove their pants and shot the copilot after threatening to "put a bullet in your head."

The hijackers, reportedly armed with guns and grenades, had demanded a $10- million ransom for the plane and its passengers. An undisclosed amount of money was given to the sky pirates during a stop in Chattanooga, Tenn., Saturday. Southern refused to say how much money had been given to them.

There also were several other unanswered points:

—Were the hijackers screened for weapons when they boarded the Southern jet at Birmingham shortly before they commandeered the plane Friday night?

—Will Cuba return the ransom money and the hijackers to the United States?

—Why did the FBI order its marksmen to shoot the tires of the hijacked Southern DC9 and endanger the lives of the passengers and crew. An FBI sokesman declined to comment.

Police and family members identified the hijackers as Melvin Charles Cale, 21, of Oak Ridge, Tenn.; his half- brother, Lewis K. Moore, 27, of Detroit, and Henry D. Jackson, 25, also of Detroit.

The FBI here said the U.S. attorney's office in Birmingham, Ala., had been authorized to file air- piracy charges against the three.

Cale was described as an escapee from the Nashville Community Work Release Center.

Jackson and Moore were described as close friends who became embittered after losing a $4-million lawsuit in which they accused Detroit police of brutality. They were freed on $500 bond in a rape case last month.

Buchanan said it was the hijacker called "Henry" who shot Johnson after FBI

Supreme Court Gives Go-Ahead For Ellsberg Pentagon Papers Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today allowed the government to proceed with the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo without revealing to them who in the defense team was overheard in a "foreign-intelligence" wiretap.

Ellsberg and Russo are charged with espionage, conspiracy and misuse of government property in the publication of the once-secret study of the origins of the Vietnam war. Their trial in Los Angeles has been delayed since July 29 by the dispute over wiretapping.

The court did not comment on the issues as it handed down a routine order declining to hear an appeal by Ellsberg and Russo, who argued also that "foreign-intelligence" wiretaps without warrants are illegal.

A dissenting opinion was filed by Justice William O. Douglas who stayed the trial in July while the court was in its summer recess. Justice William J. Brennan Jr. also dissented.

In other action, the court:

—Denied a hearing to a Los Angeles newspaper reporter who was cited with contempt after he refused to divulge his sources for a story on the Charles Manson murder trial.

—Agreed to review a lowercourt ruling banning charges for grain inspections on railroads.

Ellsberg and Russo needed the votes of at least four justices to have their appeal taken up by the court. The vote against them was seven to two.

Douglas said he regretted that his colleagues did not take the occasion to lay down some further ground rules for the conduct of criminal cases involving electronic surveillance. He also said that it was time "we hold that the confidences of the lawyer-client relationship remain inviolate."

Douglas said he had examined the logs "and it appears that the electronics surveillance was of a telephone of a foreign national and that the intercepted conversations in this case had nothing to do with respect to activities of foreign persons or their agents."

Reached at his Cambridge, Mass., home, Ellsberg said the decision reflected the court's attitude toward interrupting the trial rather than on the merits of the legal issues raised. He said he had no idea when his trial would resume.

"Now, we're really back to the issues of the case," said Ellsberg. "Prior to my indictment, leaking or revealing official information to the press was not a crime. If I'm convicted, leaking becomes a crime."

In Los Angeles, Russo told a newsman he was not surprised "knowing the character of the Supreme Court today." He accused the government attorneys of "dragging their feet" in filing papers during the appeal in order to delay the trial until after President Nixon's election.

"If we are able to testify freely, it's going to be very embarrassing to the government," Russo said.

"It's obvious to me that they have been trying to manipulate the timing of the trial. They wanted to maintain all of their options."

He said he was shocked that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew had equated the Pentagon Papers with the Watergate bugging incident.

"How can we get a fair trial now?" he asked.

Last Aug. 9, U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne of Los Angeles, who was presiding at the trial, sent the jurors home until the court settled the appeal.

Shortly after the trial had begun, the government submitted to Judge Byrne a surveillance log on one of the

Trial Starts Today In Fragging Deaths

FT. ORD, Calif. (AP) — A military jury of two black and five white officers begins deliberations today on the fate of a black soldier accused of murdering two young Army lieutenants in a Vietnam "fragging" incident.

Although there have been numerous such incidents in the war — 96 in 1969 and 209 in 1970 resulting in 101 deaths — the court-martial of Pvt. Billy Dean Smith on charges of using a fragmentation grenade to kill fellow soldiers is the first conducted in the United States.

The presiding judge, Col. Rawls H. Frazier, said he would give his final instructions today and then send the case to the jury. He has ruled the jury will deliberate only during normal work hours.

When the trial began Sept. 6, Frazier ruled that Smith could not receive the death penalty. But he still faces the possibility of life imprisonment.

The prosecution and defense concluded their cases in lengthy final summaries during the weekend.

Smith, 21, of Los Angeles is charged with killing 1st Lt. Thomas Dellwo of Choteau, Mont., and 2nd Lt. Richard Harlan of Dallas, Tex.

Both died shortly after midnight March 15, 1971, at the Bien Hoa Army Base near Saigon when a grenade exploded in their quarters.

The Army also has charged Smith with assault and attempted murder.

The latter charge is based on the government's contention that Smith was attempting to kill his commanding officer, Capt. Randall L. Rigby of Ft. Sill, Okla., and 1st Sgt. Billie Willis of Big Stony Gap, Va.

Haig Back After Talks With Thieu; Kissinger May Leave For Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's special emissary to Saigon returns today amid widespread expectation that adviser Henry A. Kissinger will soon head for another peace negotiating session in Paris.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. was slated to report to Nixon following his homecoming after two days of talks with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu and short stops in Cambodia and South Korea. The U.S. embassy described the talks with Thieu as "cordial and constructive."

Nixon came back to Washington from Key Biscayne, Fla., Sunday night for a few hours' stay before proceeding to his Camp David, Md., retreat.

Kissinger weekended in New York, seeing a Broadway play and a professional football game after which he mingled in the locker room with quarterback Joe Namath and others of the New York Jets.

Just when Kissinger will head for Paris to meet again with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho remains a secret. Administration officials maintained their air of confidence, however, about moving toward final accord on ending the war.

Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy anticipated a further KissingerTho meeting in a Paris interview over the weekend, though he held to North Vietnam's position that the session should be devoted to procedures for signing the proposed nine-point pact—not to altering it.

U.S. officials in Saigon indicated Haig's talks with Thieu narrowed U.S.-South Vietnamese differences, apparently clearing the way for resumption of the private negotiations in Paris.

But the Saigon newspaper Tin Song, which is controlled by Thieu's closest adviser, said Haig and the president had made "no further progress" in their talks.

The report said three major points still were to be resolved: the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces, the administrative organization to maintain the cease-fire and supervise elections and under what conditions and when will the international body to police the cease-fire begin work.

Haig, Kissinger's top aide, was reported to have carried a Nixon letter to Thieu and presumably received one from Thieu to Nixon.

Haig conferred in Phnom Penh with the Cambodian chief of state, Lon Nol, and in Seoul with President Chung Hee Park.

Both countries would be directly affected by the ninepoint plan. It calls for withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from Cambodia and for a pull-out of South Korean troops, along with the Americans, from South Vietnam. Some 37,000 South Koreans are in South Vietnam.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon had received "lots of reports" from Haig during the trip. He declined to answer any substantive questions about the negotiations beyond saying "everything we have said before stands."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

We believe trying to keep a good man down is about as hard as trying to keep a good- for- nothing one up.

IT DOES NOT MAKE SENSE

The Soviets militarily occupied Czechoslovakia in 1968 and were denounced by most of the free world. Yet today we are considering trade with them that would increase their truck production and computer capability. Soviet trucks carry supplies down the Ho Chi Minh trail and computers are the sine qua non of missiles and space.

Another outrageous event took place in 1968. The United Nations voted sanctions against -- not the USSR -- Rhodesia. Chrome, essential in jet engines, is a key Rhodesian export. So the Japanese bought Rhodesian chrome and sold it to the USSR. The Russians in turn sold it to the U. S. at three times the price Rhodesia charged. The Senate barely rectified this situation.

Recently, for the first time, U. S. businesses were fined for trading with Rhodesia. A Federal judge fined a management company $200,000; a shipping firm got a $100,000 penalty, and three individuals were fined a total of $11,750.

What was their crime? Selling vital materials? Auctioning off nuclear secrets? No, they were going to build a fertilizer plant to increase Rhodesian crop yields. All Rhodesians, black and white, would have been better fed if it had been built.

But no, the U.N. supposedly interested in things like hunger, would frown on it. So, American citizens were tried in American courts by American prosecutors for violating rules laid down by an international organization. That the U.N. is largely bankrolled by American taxpayers and hardly friendly to American interests was not mentioned at the trial.

We'll say it again: it does not make sense.

Hunters and birdwatchers owe a "thank you" to the dedicated sportsmen who brought foreign birds to our shores. (Through excise taxes on sporting firearms and ammunition and license fees, hunters continue to contribute to sound wildlife management.) Hunters brought the popular ringnecked pheasant here in 1882 from the Orient. Today the ringneck harvest in South Dakota alone approaches one million birds a year. To bag these game birds, Remington Arms suggests you use a good dog and match the birds' speed with a fast-firing gun.

Christianity Today points out that the perceptive British author Sir Arnold Lunn speaks of "selective indignation," the phenominon that gives world-wide publicity to the "political" trial (on murder and kidnapping charges) of a Communist enthusiast in California but passes over with scant notice the much more clearly political trials of non-conformist Communists in Czechoslovakia.

We all know that the shooting of one Irishman by a British soldier is much bigger news than the slaughter of ten thousand Hutu tribesmen in Burundi by their Tutsi rulers. Jacques Ellul distinguishes between the "interesting poor" --those whose cause can be used to embarrass the democratic and capitalistic nations of the West -- and the "uninteresting poor." whose sufferings are of concern only to themselves.

Just imagine that the Greek government (often referred to by adversaries as "the colonels") had tried to destroy all the manuscripts of the anti-government composer Theodorakis as he was leaving the country. What an outcry there would have been -- and with good reason.

The colonels didn't try. However, after the Soviet Christian painter Yuri Titov was "expelled" in June, he discovered all the paintings he had been allowed to take with him had been drenched with sulfuric acid between the time he presented them for coustoms inspection at a Moscow airport and their delivery in Rome. Sixty-two paintings, a major part of his life's work, damaged or destroyed. Did you know about it? Poor Titov -- his case just isn't very interesting. Or is it?

We can add to this list. Even in our present election, the critics of the Vietnamese war never seem to consider the slaughter of South Vietnamese people by the Viet Cong as very interesting -- in comparison to the bombings of North Vietnam which attacked the South Vietnamese in the first place.

MAINSTAY OF PROGRESS

A surefire political formula for getting votes has been for a candidate or an officeholder to demonstrate an ability to attract large government spending programs to his community or to his state. Obscured in the glittering prospect of "free money" from Washington was one hard fact. Taxpayers would eventually be called upon to pay the bill.

With the passage of years, cost of government at all levels has reached crushing proportions--forcing curtailment of many spending programs. By the same token, communities are once again inclined to welcome old-fashioned, self-supporting, taxpaying industrial development. Typical of what may be a new trend is the comment of a local editor of a California community in urging support of a proposal by a local power company to build a $300 million generating facility. In the words of the editor: "As long-time residents of this area, we have become more and more concerned with the economics, as we have watched our property taxes go up and up, and with a continuing spiral that we see no relief from unless a major industry steps into take on a share of the burden...We are convinced that the...steam plant will be a boon to the economy of this area and will offer no health or esthetic hazard to that population."

The investor-owned taxpaying electric industry has been one of the most substantial community builders in the United States. The billions of dollars that it has poured into plants and facilities, all of which are heavily taxed, have been and will continue to be one of the mainstays of community progress.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROBLEM NUMBER ONE

All that has been done so far and all that is envisioned so far for insuring the future of a good life are wholly irrelevant to grim reality. That is the studied opinion of Mr. Robert Lee, businessman, observer-philosopher and executive of a major timber corporation.

Mr. Lee believes the number one environmental problem is people. He even goes so far as to contemplate the hydrogen bomb as the savior of civilization rather than a destroyer. "Hundreds of millions of people," he observes, "May have to be evaporated in order that some other hundreds of millions may live. All cannot live." The very extremity of such a possible solution to our environmental problems suggest that Mr. Lee is trying to shock people into an awareness of realities, hoping they may then do something about it.

One reality is that in the next 15 years world materials requirements could equal all material used throughout history to date. Another is that scientists are now questioning whether the earth's oxygen supply will be able to continue to support our present population. Or whether it too will be used by man and all of his manufacturing activities. Oxygen comes from green plants, and they still remain the only natural source of oxygen. Mr. Lee points out that with our population of 200 million, we must dispose of one million cubic yards of garbage each day--enough to fill Mammoth Cave in Kentucky in just one month.

Mr. Lee suggests an arrangement of world councils with wide powers to deal with the food and population problem and recalls the words of historian Arnold Toynbee, "What is the true end of man? Is it to populate the earth with the maximum number of human beings-- or is it to enable human beings to lead the best kind of life that the spiritual limitations of human nature allow?"

SOARING SOWING

Helicopters have completed what is considered one of the most extensive short- term programs of aerial fertilization of timber ever undertaken.

More than 10,000 tons of granular fertilizer were broadcast over 60,000 acres of trees in forests near Eugene, Ore., and Longview, Centralia and Raymond, Wash.

The job was done for Weyerhaeuser Co. as a part of its timber management program.

PIRACY DECLARED ILLEGAL

Another milestone court decision has once again stalled a take-over of taxpaying, investor-owned private enterprise by a federally-subsidized, tax-favored, public project.

The Indiana Supreme Court has ruled that an Indiana electric power cooperative lacks legal authorization to build its nearly $100-million power system in southern Indiana. The court said that under the law, the Indiana Public Service Commission must issue a current certificate of public convenience and necessity before the co-op can generate and transmit electric power. In similar fashion some time ago in the state of Colorado, a completed cooperative project was brought to a halt by court action, just as it was ready to take over the customers of a taxpaying, private company in the name of rural electrification.

Court decisions, such as that in Indiana and the one in Colorado, show more clearly than anything else, the changing nature of the rural electrification program. No longer, as was the case 30 years ago, is rural electrification a question of providing taxpayer subsidies to bring electric power to farms and rural areas that would not otherwise enjoy the blessings of electricity. Today, this kind of rural electrification is completed in nearly every section of the country. Now when a co-op receives tax funds at a 2 per cent interest rate, it is frequently for purposes other than bringing electric power to the isolated country-side.

As the court recognized in Indiana, the projects of the REA today are aimed at markets where taxpaying utilities already provide service. Therefore, taxpayers may well agree with the Indiana utility official who observed,"We welcome this important decision, because it is in the public interest."

WHEN THE CALL GOES OUT

Like new model cars rolling out of Detroit each year, we have come to expect new models of the flu bug to arrive periodically from the Orient. The fall of 1968 saw the introduction of "Hong Kong flu," a slightly different strain of the disease than we have endured in past years. One refrain that runs through the news reports is that if a new flu bug develops in epidemic proportions, a vaccine will be on hand to prevent any serious threat to our health. The timely presence of a vaccine is assumed.

And where will this vaccine come from. Of course it will come from leading drug firms-- manufacturing pharmacists-- in the prescription drug industry. It is to these firms who are equipped with the best laboratores in the world and who spend some $400 million a year on research that we must look for the prompt development and production of flu vaccine. As a matter of fact, according to one industry spokesman, a half dozen of the prescription drug manufacturers are engaged in the costly and time consuming production of the needed flu vaccine. As far as is humanly possible, each year, such companies must prepare well in advance for any contingency. But, it takes several months to gear up for production and turn out a new vaccine in quantities sufficient to protect many millions of people. When the flu strikes early in epidemic proportions, enough vaccine cannot be produced immediately to supply all who may need it. Should the companies over estimate the supply needed, they are subject to substantial financial loss since all vaccine not used is returnable.

These are facts that the public hears little about. The makers of high- quality brand name drugs are the only source of supply when an emergency call goes out for a vaccine to combat the latest model flu bug. In spite of the claims of investigators and regulators that all pills are alike so long as they have the same chemical ingredients-- generic substances-- when the chips are down, the nation depends on the leaders in the prescription drug industry who still take pride in name and product.

OUR SPLENDID REPUBLIC

After the tumult and shouting die and we have elected a national government, the work of preserving our Republic has just begun. This we should not forget. Liberty is earned with a heavy price of blood and treasure. Liberty is retained only through eternal vigilance and dedicated, joyful action by constructive citizens.

Freedom is never "safe." Freedom is always in danger. Freedom is not protected by good intentions or wishful hoping. The history of mankind is the history of the struggle for Liberty. It was not until our splendid Republic was established by our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution and Bill of Rights that Liberty actually succeeded over tyranny.

Soon we will celebrate the 200th birthday of our Republic. The year 1976 will be a year of honoring the Founders and a year of setting the direction for our Republic's next 100 years. We think of our nation as a young one, and it is. Still, we have lived longer under our Constitution than has nay other nation now in existence.

There are civilizations older than ours, but there is no government which has been as successful or durable, including the British and the Swiss, which have undergone major change since ours. Our task is to restore and improve Truth and Freedom and our splendid Republic, despite the many criminals, foreign and domestic, who would destroy us. Now is the time to get organized and get busy. Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- At one euphoric moment in the Cabinet Room Wednesday morning, President Nixon invoked the wit of the legendary Victorian Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli. Mr. Nixon quoted Disraeli during one of the latter's tart exchanges with the opposition, meaning the revolving- door Prime Minister William Gladstone.

At the end of a long campaign, said the President, Disraeli called Gladstone an "exhausted volcano."

Mr. Nixon said that he did not want his second term to resemble a fireless Mt. Etna. He spoke of the history of second terms. He averred he wanted none of the lethargy which had characterized many second terms that did not have the incentive or motivation created by the constant thought of having to stand for reelection.

He told his Cabinet and Vice President, as well as such specialists as the Cost of Living Council chairman Don Rumsfeld, that he did not want a holding operation. No inaction because there is no pressure from the fear of the electorate. The Tuesday sweep was not to be merely a license to continue.

The Cabinet members left, some never to return. Thus, few had any continuing assignments.

But one does. He is Treasury Secretary George Shultz, the home- front Kissinger-- and, among other things, envoy to the sovereign state known as George Meany and organized labor.

This domestic Kissingership is a most delicate task: quiet meetings, confidential talks and all the trimmings of intricate negotiations. For, with the war winding down abroad, here is where the headlines will be whipped up at home.

One of the President's prime priorities is the grinding dow of inflation. This means there must be labor peace. And that doesn't seem likely.

President Nixon and his economic brain trusts-- known as the Quadriad and Troika-- believe they've just about cut the rate of inflation, meaning the speed of disappearance of the vanishing dollar, down to some 3 per cent annually. The President wants it ground down even more-- to less than 2 per cent. With an occasional monthly zero rise.

The gut of this, therefore, is the continuation of wage and price controls in some fashion. This was virtually decided at an off- the- record brain trust lunch on Thursday, Oct. 12, in the Executive Office Building dominated by George Shultz, Don Rumsfeld and Herb Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. The free market can't cope with inflation, they concluded.

With the Nov. 14 end of the control year just around the corner for them, there apparently was another Nixon-Quadriad- Troika decision:

Before the end of the year the ceiling will be lowered on wage and salary increases. Lowered slightly-- but still lowered.

During this past control year the permissible annual rate of pay raises really was 6.2 per cent-- 5.5 in cash and another .7 per cent in fringes.

Now the move is toward slicing this down thinly to a total hike of 5.5 per cent. Perhaps 5 per cent in wages and another half a per cent in fringes.

Action now is expected by Dec. 1. By then the Pay Board and Price Commission may be merged. Actually the real reason for the creation of two boards was the need for a tripartite Pay Board structure, which Meany had demanded. But then Meany moved out and it became all public. If Meany wants in again-- which is doubtful-- the board will stay as it is. Otherwise the thinking calls for one board (without disturbing the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee which is untouchable).

When the move is made for a marginal cut in the size of permissible raises for tens of millions of blue and white collar workers, this capital's livest, most inexhaustible volcano-- meaning Meany-- will erupt.

This elder of labor and his 14 million- member federation will demand a total freeze of no freeze at all. The union chiefs may have been split on Presidential neutrality. But there will be nothing neutral in the fight against lowering the ceiling on wage increases.

Since it will be a Herculean operation to freeze profits, dividends, all prices, wages and any and all types of income, the conflict will rage. And that's the word for it.

There are two war trails they can hit-- political and industrial. Labor's power in Congress can be measured by their Committee on Political Education's victories.

They backed 29 Senatorial candidates in 33 races and 16 won-- a 55 per cent victory.

In the House they endorsed 362 candidates and 218 won. With such blocs they can beat down the President's move for renewed economic control powers next spring.

Or they can hit the strike trail.

The massive labor contracts are upcoming-- General Electric, railroads, trucking, freight haulage, auto, among other catapulting crises.

The honeymoon is over now that George McGovern is in the Virgin Islands.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- When the Pentagon brass want to publish a book, they go about it with all the massive planning of a military invasion.

For instance, Assistant Defense Secretary Daniel Henkin thought it would be nice, as part of the 200th anniversary of the armed forces in 1975, to publicize "how defense expenditures often have done double duty through their impact on the quality of life and living."

This started the Pentagon wheels whirling. Task forces were formed; meetings were held; research was ordered. The planners have now come up with an exhaustive proposal for a 300- page book portraying the military's humanitarian accomplishments.

According to the Pentagon's calculations, this would take five historians each putting in "1 1/2 man- years at an average salary of $19,000." That would be 7 1/2 man-years, right there.

Two editors working six months each, two cartographers putting in another three months apiece and one photo editor working one year would add another 2 1/2 man- years to the project. The planners figure two clerk-typists would have to spend a total of three man- years typing up everything.

The salaries alone would come to $185,000. The production costs are calculated around $700,000. "All these figures," declares an internal memo, "need further refinement but they produce a ballpark figure of around $1 million as total cost that would need to be budgeted for this project."

The proposed million-dollar book, it is suggested, "would be a semipopular in style, well illustrated and presented in as attractive a format as possible, including color illustrations."

A suggested outline cites such humanitarian accomplishments by the armed forces as "soldiers and sailors as governors and administrators in occupied territories and possessions" and "the enforcement of law and order by the armed forces from the Whiskey Rebellion to the anti-Vietnam demonstrations."

A spokesman explained that the million- dollar project has been approved by Ad Hoc Task Force No. 1 but hasn't yet been endorsed by the Army Staff Bicentennial Committee, let alone the top Pentagon brass.

--St Germain's reward--

While most Americans are shivering from winter's first nip, dapper Congressman Fernand St Germain and his family will be lolling in the Florida sunshine as guests of the U.S. Savings and Loan League.

The league is flying St Germian, his pretty wife and their two children from chilly Providence, R.I., to balmy Miami for the annual "S and L" convention.

Not only is the league picking up the $772.64 bill from Eastern Airlines for four first- class tickets, but it is also paying St Germain at least $1,000 for addressing the convention.

He won't have to worry about a rousing ovation from the conventioneers. For as chairman of a House banking subcommittee, the Rhode Island Democrat reportedly made a dubious deal with the bankers on behalf of the savings and loan crowd.

He pushed through a bill which would allow bankers to avoid certain important state taxes. In exchange, the bankers promised to go easy on the savings and loan industry's pet projects, competent sources tell us. St Germain insisted the two measures be tied together when he reported them out of his subcommittee.

The double- barrelled bill failed only because wise old Rep. Wright Patman, who has been Horatio at the Bridge on so much special interest legislation, let it languish in his full House Banking Committee.

Next session, the savings and loan outfits are looking to St Germain for legislation that would let them jack up interest rates in the middle of a mortgage. The hapless homeowner who takes out an eight per cent, 20- year mortgage, thereby, might have his rate boosted to 10 per cent or more any time during the 20 years.

The savings and loan associations also want a measure passed to let them convert mutual associations into stock companies. This could give officers and other insiders windfall profits without benefiting the ordinary depositors.

In the past, St Germain has questioned both these measures; and, in general, his record on consumer issues has been good. We were unable to reach him for his comment.

Footnote: The league has also offered Patman an honorarium and expenses to address the convention. But unlike St. Germain, Patman has done no favors for the industry.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some things we could all do without:

Amateur Sigmund Freuds who like to skip rope in other people's minds.

Guys who want to help you solve a crossword puzzle you'd prefer to work out yourself.

Twenty-four hour viruses that hang around for almost that many days.

Anyone over the age of 10 who uses the word "yummy."

Cloudy mornings.

Hatcheck girls who try to look like the late Marilyn Monroe.

Pickled eels and half-fried people.

Little white dogs that sneak up behind you and bite you on the heel.

Overnight lovers who think it is clever to write "Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson" in the registers of fleabag hotels.

Any more chains of any kind of chain stores or services

Veterinarians who charge more than internists.

Anyone you pay money to who lacks the courtesy to say "Thank you."

Anyone who cuts down a tree whose signature you like to see against the sky.

Racehorses that don't seem able to learn how to come in first when you want them to.

People who wear their glasses on top of their heads and get mad if you won't help them search for them.

A big bug in the bathtub.

Two big bugs in the bathtub.

A dearth of rainbows.

Anybody who writes an anonymous letter about anything.

People who whisper together in the corner at cocktail parties.

People who stand in the center of the room and shout at each other at cocktail parties.

People who say they can't stand cocktail parties but keep right on going to five or six of them a week.

Guys who go around in public holding a radio to their ear.

Wives who think the family will fall apart and there will be nothing left on earth to live for if they don't get a color television set for Christmas.

The ringing of a telephone just when you're comfortable in the reclining chair and have settled down to read a nice new front-page murder story in the afternoon newspaper.

Emergency calls from the office on your day off.

Handlebar mustaches on guys who couldn't lift a two-pound steak overhead without getting red in the face.

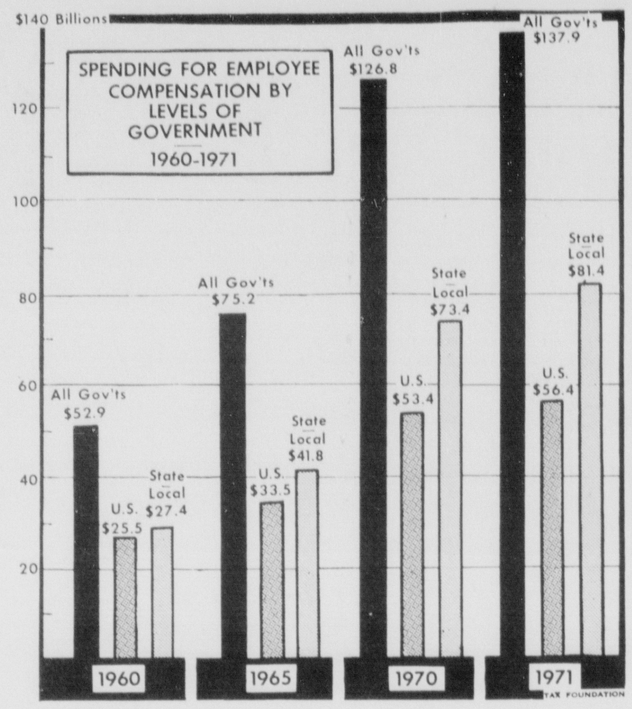
Another announcement that the cat is going to have kittens — and you still haven't been able to get rid of the ones she had the last time.

Another rent raise.

Another tax hike.

Another world just like this one.

From these and other vexations of body and spirit, deliver us. Amen.



Spending for state-local government employee compensation about tripled ($27-$81 billion) from 1960-71, while at the Federal level spending doubled ($26-$56 billion).

Christianity Today points out that the perceptive British author Sir Arnold Lunn speaks of "selective indignation," the phenominon that gives world-wide publicity to the "political" trial (on murder and kidnapping charges) of a Communist enthusiast in California but passes over with scant notice the much more clearly political trials of non-conformist Communists in Czechoslovakia.

We all know that the shooting of one Irishman by a British soldier is much bigger news than the slaughter of ten thousand Hutu tribesmen in Burundi by their Tutsi rulers. Jacques Ellul distinguishes between the "interesting poor" --those whose cause can be used to embarrass the democratic and capitalistic nations of the West -- and the "uninteresting poor." whose sufferings are of concern only to themselves.

Just imagine that the Greek government (often referred to by adversaries as "the colonels") had tried to destroy all the manuscripts of the anti-government composer Theodorakis as he was leaving the country. What an outcry there would have been -- and with good reason.

The colonels didn't try. However, after the Soviet Christian painter Yuri Titov was "expelled" in June, he discovered all the paintings he had been allowed to take with him had been drenched with sulfuric acid between the time he presented them for coustoms inspection at a Moscow airport and their delivery in Rome. Sixty-two paintings, a major part of his life's work, damaged or destroyed. Did you know about it? Poor Titov -- his case just isn't very interesting. Or is it?

We can add to this list. Even in our present election, the critics of the Vietnamese war never seem to consider the slaughter of South Vietnamese people by the Viet Cong as very interesting -- in comparison to the bombings of North Vietnam which attacked the South Vietnamese in the first place.

MAINSTAY OF PROGRESS

A surefire political formula for getting votes has been for a candidate or an officeholder to demonstrate an ability to attract large government spending programs to his community or to his state. Obscured in the glittering prospect of "free money" from Washington was one hard fact. Taxpayers would eventually be called upon to pay the bill.

With the passage of years, cost of government at all levels has reached crushing proportions--forcing curtailment of many spending programs. By the same token, communities are once again inclined to welcome old-fashioned, self-supporting, taxpaying industrial development. Typical of what may be a new trend is the comment of a local editor of a California community in urging support of a proposal by a local power company to build a $300 million generating facility. In the words of the editor: "As long-time residents of this area, we have become more and more concerned with the economics, as we have watched our property taxes go up and up, and with a continuing spiral that we see no relief from unless a major industry steps into take on a share of the burden...We are convinced that the...steam plant will be a boon to the economy of this area and will offer no health or esthetic hazard to that population."

The investor-owned taxpaying electric industry has been one of the most substantial community builders in the United States. The billions of dollars that it has poured into plants and facilities, all of which are heavily taxed, have been and will continue to be one of the mainstays of community progress.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROBLEM NUMBER ONE

All that has been done so far and all that is envisioned so far for insuring the future of a good life are wholly irrelevant to grim reality. That is the studied opinion of Mr. Robert Lee, businessman, observer-philosopher and executive of a major timber corporation.

Mr. Lee believes the number one environmental problem is people. He even goes so far as to contemplate the hydrogen bomb as the savior of civilization rather than a destroyer. "Hundreds of millions of people," he observes, "May have to be evaporated in order that some other hundreds of millions may live. All cannot live." The very extremity of such a possible solution to our environmental problems suggest that Mr. Lee is trying to shock people into an awareness of realities, hoping they may then do something about it.

One reality is that in the next 15 years world materials requirements could equal all material used throughout history to date. Another is that scientists are now questioning whether the earth's oxygen supply will be able to continue to support our present population. Or whether it too will be used by man and all of his manufacturing activities. Oxygen comes from green plants, and they still remain the only natural source of oxygen. Mr. Lee points out that with our population of 200 million, we must dispose of one million cubic yards of garbage each day--enough to fill Mammoth Cave in Kentucky in just one month.

Mr. Lee suggests an arrangement of world councils with wide powers to deal with the food and population problem and recalls the words of historian Arnold Toynbee, "What is the true end of man? Is it to populate the earth with the maximum number of human beings-- or is it to enable human beings to lead the best kind of life that the spiritual limitations of human nature allow?"

SOARING SOWING

Helicopters have completed what is considered one of the most extensive short- term programs of aerial fertilization of timber ever undertaken.

More than 10,000 tons of granular fertilizer were broadcast over 60,000 acres of trees in forests near Eugene, Ore., and Longview, Centralia and Raymond, Wash.

The job was done for Weyerhaeuser Co. as a part of its timber management program.

PIRACY DECLARED ILLEGAL

Another milestone court decision has once again stalled a take-over of taxpaying, investor-owned private enterprise by a federally-subsidized, tax-favored, public project.

The Indiana Supreme Court has ruled that an Indiana electric power cooperative lacks legal authorization to build its nearly $100-million power system in southern Indiana. The court said that under the law, the Indiana Public Service Commission must issue a current certificate of public convenience and necessity before the co-op can generate and transmit electric power. In similar fashion some time ago in the state of Colorado, a completed cooperative project was brought to a halt by court action, just as it was ready to take over the customers of a taxpaying, private company in the name of rural electrification.

Court decisions, such as that in Indiana and the one in Colorado, show more clearly than anything else, the changing nature of the rural electrification program. No longer, as was the case 30 years ago, is rural electrification a question of providing taxpayer subsidies to bring electric power to farms and rural areas that would not otherwise enjoy the blessings of electricity. Today, this kind of rural electrification is completed in nearly every section of the country. Now when a co-op receives tax funds at a 2 per cent interest rate, it is frequently for purposes other than bringing electric power to the isolated country-side.

As the court recognized in Indiana, the projects of the REA today are aimed at markets where taxpaying utilities already provide service. Therefore, taxpayers may well agree with the Indiana utility official who observed,"We welcome this important decision, because it is in the public interest."

NEW SAFETY CAR

An experimental safety vehicle survived a 50- mph barrier crash test, with its components held intact despite crash distortion. The design and test results with detailed vehicle specifications were turned over to the U.S. Department of Transportation for the contract price of one dollar by General Motors.

Two of the five- passenger "family sedans" will be delivered by GM to the DOT next October.

Ernest S. Starkman, GM's vice president in charge of environmental activities, said, "We look upon the ESV project primarily as a test bed for new safety concepts."

WHEN THE CALL GOES OUT

Like new model cars rolling out of Detroit each year, we have come to expect new models of the flu bug to arrive periodically from the Orient. The fall of 1968 saw the introduction of "Hong Kong flu," a slightly different strain of the disease than we have endured in past years. One refrain that runs through the news reports is that if a new flu bug develops in epidemic proportions, a vaccine will be on hand to prevent any serious threat to our health. The timely presence of a vaccine is assumed.

And where will this vaccine come from. Of course it will come from leading drug firms--manufacturing pharmacists-- in the prescription drug industry. It is to these firms who are equipped with the best laboratores in the world and who spend some $400 million a year on research that we must look for the prompt development and production of flu vaccine. As a matter of fact, according to one industry spokesman, a half dozen of the prescription drug manufacturers are engaged in the costly and time consuming production of the needed flu vaccine. As far as is humanly possible, each year, such companies must prepare well in advance for any contingency. But, it takes several months to gear up for production and turn out a new vaccine in quantities sufficient to protect many millions of people. When the flu strikes early in epidemic proportions, enough vaccine cannot be produced immediately to supply all who may need it. Should the companies over estimate the supply needed, they are subject to substantial financial loss since all vaccine not used is returnable.

These are facts that the public hears little about. The makers of high- quality brand name drugs are the only source of supply when an emergency call goes out for a vaccine to combat the latest model flu bug. In spite of the claims of investigators and regulators that all pills are alike so long as they have the same chemical ingredients-- generic substances-- when the chips are down, the nation depends on the leaders in the prescription drug industry who still take pride in name and product.

OUR SPLENDID REPUBLIC

After the tumult and shouting die and we have elected a national government, the work of preserving our Republic has just begun. This we should not forget. Liberty is earned with a heavy price of blood and treasure. Liberty is retained only through eternal vigilance and dedicated, joyful action by constructive citizens.

Freedom is never "safe." Freedom is always in danger. Freedom is not protected by good intentions or wishful hoping. The history of mankind is the history of the struggle for Liberty. It was not until our splendid Republic was established by our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution and Bill of Rights that Liberty actually succeeded over tyranny.

Soon we will celebrate the 200th birthday of our Republic. The year 1976 will be a year of honoring the Founders and a year of setting the direction for our Republic's next 100 years. We think of our nation as a young one, and it is. Still, we have lived longer under our Constitution than has nay other nation now in existence.

There are civilizations older than ours, but there is no government which has been as successful or durable, including the British and the Swiss, which have undergone major change since ours. Our task is to restore and improve Truth and Freedom and our splendid Republic, despite the many criminals, foreign and domestic, who would destroy us. Now is the time to get organized and get busy. Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- At one euphoric moment in the Cabinet Room Wednesday morning, President Nixon invoked the wit of the legendary Victorian Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli. Mr. Nixon quoted Disraeli during one of the latter's tart exchanges with the opposition, meaning the revolving- door Prime Minister William Gladstone.

At the end of a long campaign, said the President, Disraeli called Gladstone an "exhausted volcano."

Mr. Nixon said that he did not want his second term to resemble a fireless Mt. Etna. He spoke of the history of second terms. He averred he wanted none of the lethargy which had characterized many second terms that did not have the incentive or motivation created by the constant thought of having to stand for reelection.

He told his Cabinet and Vice President, as well as such specialists as the Cost of Living Council chairman Don Rumsfeld, that he did not want a holding operation. No inaction because there is no pressure from the fear of the electorate. The Tuesday sweep was not to be merely a license to continue.

The Cabinet members left, some never to return. Thus, few had any continuing assignments.

But one does. He is Treasury Secretary George Shultz, the home- front Kissinger-- and, among other things, envoy to the sovereign state known as George Meany and organized labor.

This domestic Kissingership is a most delicate task: quiet meetings, confidential talks and all the trimmings of intricate negotiations. For, with the war winding down abroad, here is where the headlines will be whipped up at home.

One of the President's prime priorities is the grinding dow of inflation. This means there must be labor peace. And that doesn't seem likely.

President Nixon and his economic brain trusts-- known as the Quadriad and Troika-- believe they've just about cut the rate of inflation, meaning the speed of disappearance of the vanishing dollar, down to some 3 per cent annually. The President wants it ground down even more-- to less than 2 per cent. With an occasional monthly zero rise.

The gut of this, therefore, is the continuation of wage and price controls in some fashion. This was virtually decided at an off- the- record brain trust lunch on Thursday, Oct. 12, in the Executive Office Building dominated by George Shultz, Don Rumsfeld and Herb Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. The free market can't cope with inflation, they concluded.

With the Nov. 14 end of the control year just around the corner for them, there apparently was another Nixon-Quadriad- Troika decision:

Before the end of the year the ceiling will be lowered on wage and salary increases. Lowered slightly-- but still lowered.

During this past control year the permissible annual rate of pay raises really was 6.2 per cent-- 5.5 in cash and another .7 per cent in fringes.

Now the move is toward slicing this down thinly to a total hike of 5.5 per cent. Perhaps 5 per cent in wages and another half a per cent in fringes.

Action now is expected by Dec. 1. By then the Pay Board and Price Commission may be merged. Actually the real reason for the creation of two boards was the need for a tripartite Pay Board structure, which Meany had demanded. But then Meany moved out and it became all public. If Meany wants in again-- which is doubtful-- the board will stay as it is. Otherwise the thinking calls for one board (without disturbing the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee which is untouchable).

When the move is made for a marginal cut in the size of permissible raises for tens of millions of blue and white collar workers, this capital's livest, most inexhaustible volcano-- meaning Meany-- will erupt.

This elder of labor and his 14 million- member federation will demand a total freeze of no freeze at all. The union chiefs may have been split on Presidential neutrality. But there will be nothing neutral in the fight against lowering the ceiling on wage increases.

Since it will be a Herculean operation to freeze profits, dividends, all prices, wages and any and all types of income, the conflict will rage. And that's the word for it.

There are two war trails they can hit-- political and industrial. Labor's power in Congress can be measured by their Committee on Political Education's victories.

They backed 29 Senatorial candidates in 33 races and 16 won-- a 55 per cent victory.

In the House they endorsed 362 candidates and 218 won. With such blocs they can beat down the President's move for renewed economic control powers next spring.

Or they can hit the strike trail.

The massive labor contracts are upcoming-- General Electric, railroads, trucking, freight haulage, auto, among other catapulting crises.

The honeymoon is over now that George McGovern is in the Virgin Islands.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- When the Pentagon brass want to publish a book, they go about it with all the massive planning of a military invasion.

For instance, Assistant Defense Secretary Daniel Henkin thought it would be nice, as part of the 200th anniversary of the armed forces in 1975, to publicize "how defense expenditures often have done double duty through their impact on the quality of life and living."

This started the Pentagon wheels whirling. Task forces were formed; meetings were held; research was ordered. The planners have now come up with an exhaustive proposal for a 300- page book portraying the military's humanitarian accomplishments.

According to the Pentagon's calculations, this would take five historians each putting in "1 1/2 man- years at an average salary of $19,000." That would be 7 1/2 man-years, right there.

Two editors working six months each, two cartographers putting in another three months apiece and one photo editor working one year would add another 2 1/2 man- years to the project. The planners figure two clerk-typists would have to spend a total of three man- years typing up everything.

The salaries alone would come to $185,000. The production costs are calculated around $700,000. "All these figures," declares an internal memo, "need further refinement but they produce a ballpark figure of around $1 million as total cost that would need to be budgeted for this project."

The proposed million-dollar book, it is suggested, "would be a semipopular in style, well illustrated and presented in as attractive a format as possible, including color illustrations."

A suggested outline cites such humanitarian accomplishments by the armed forces as "soldiers and sailors as governors and administrators in occupied territories and possessions" and "the enforcement of law and order by the armed forces from the Whiskey Rebellion to the anti-Vietnam demonstrations."

A spokesman explained that the million- dollar project has been approved by Ad Hoc Task Force No. 1 but hasn't yet been endorsed by the Army Staff Bicentennial Committee, let alone the top Pentagon brass.

--St Germain's reward--

While most Americans are shivering from winter's first nip, dapper Congressman Fernand St Germain and his family will be lolling in the Florida sunshine as guests of the U.S. Savings and Loan League.

The league is flying St Germian, his pretty wife and their two children from chilly Providence, R.I., to balmy Miami for the annual "S and L" convention.

Not only is the league picking up the $772.64 bill from Eastern Airlines for four first- class tickets, but it is also paying St Germain at least $1,000 for addressing the convention.

He won't have to worry about a rousing ovation from the conventioneers. For as chairman of a House banking subcommittee, the Rhode Island Democrat reportedly made a dubious deal with the bankers on behalf of the savings and loan crowd.

He pushed through a bill which would allow bankers to avoid certain important state taxes. In exchange, the bankers promised to go easy on the savings and loan industry's pet projects, competent sources tell us. St Germain insisted the two measures be tied together when he reported them out of his subcommittee.

The double- barrelled bill failed only because wise old Rep. Wright Patman, who has been Horatio at the Bridge on so much special interest legislation, let it languish in his full House Banking Committee.

Next session, the savings and loan outfits are looking to St Germain for legislation that would let them jack up interest rates in the middle of a mortgage. The hapless homeowner who takes out an eight per cent, 20- year mortgage, thereby, might have his rate boosted to 10 per cent or more any time during the 20 years.

The savings and loan associations also want a measure passed to let them convert mutual associations into stock companies. This could give officers and other insiders windfall profits without benefiting the ordinary depositors.

In the past, St Germain has questioned both these measures; and, in general, his record on consumer issues has been good. We were unable to reach him for his comment.

Footnote: The league has also offered Patman an honorarium and expenses to address the convention. But unlike St. Germain, Patman has done no favors for the industry.

Hijackers Have Rape And Prison Records

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Authorities say two of the three men identified as hijackers of a Southern Airways jetliner were free on bond in a rape case and the third was a recently escaped convict who attended college while in prison.

The escapee, identified as Melvin Charles Cale, is a halfbrother of one of the accused rapists, relatives said.

The other two men, Henry D. Jackson, 25, and Lewis K. Moore, 27, each had been charged with three rapes and questioned in connection with several other assaults on women. Police records show Moore has never been convicted on any charges, and Jackson's only conviction was for a 1971 traffic violation.

Jackson and Moore were described as close friends whose dream of becoming rich turned sour when they were unsuccessful in a $4-million suit against the City of Detroit, accusing police of brutality.

Tennessee authorities said Cale, 21, of Oak Ridge, 9 from the Nashville Community Work Release Center, a minimum-security facility for short-term prisoners. The FBI identified the three as the heavily armed hijackers who forced a DC9 with 30 persons aboard into a marathon hijack odyssey that ended early Sunday in Havana, where Cuban officials reportedly took them in custody.

Detroit authorities said Moore and Jackson have been questioned in connection with nine rapes, two assaults with intent to rape, one gross indecency and one assault and battery. Three warrants are outstanding against them, they said. 9On Oct. 12, the two men appeared in court on two charges of forcible rape and were released on $500 bond. A third warrant on charges of forcible rape was issued Oct. 24, but neither man showed up for the preliminary hearing, police said.

Robert Cohn, a Detroit attorney, said he represented the two men in a $4-million suit charging Detroit police with brutality when Moore and Jackson were arrested on concealed-weapons charges.

Those charges were dropped, but Moore and Jackson insisted that the suit be pressed. When the City of Detroit was dropped as a party in the suit, Cohn said, they realized their chances of collecting were gone, and they grew bitter.

In Knoxville, Tenn., William V. Curd said he was Cale's father and Moore's stepfather. He said the two men were halfbrothers and both were using aliases.

Detroit police said Cale's mother lived at the same address listed for Moore.

How the two men were connected with Cale was not known immediately, but police said Cale'S xmother lived at the same Detroit address listed for Moore.

A Tennessee prison spokesman said Cale was convicted in Oliver Springs, Tenn., of stealing $400 from a departmentstore cash register in December 1970. He was sentenced to five years for grand larceny.

After serving a year in state prison in Nashville, he was transferred to the work-release center in September. While there, he attended classes at Tennessee State University without supervision.

Goldwater Aids Missouri Youth

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater diverted his private jet on a flight from a Wichita appearance to his Arizona home to take a 14-year-old boy who was shot in a hunting accident from Hays, Kan., to Kansas City for emergency treatment.

Tommy Essman of Gladstone, Mo., was struck in the eye by a shotgun pellet while hunting with his grandfather, Earl Dearinger of Kansas City, Kan., near Goodland, Kan., Saturday.

They went to a doctor's office in Hays, where it was decided the boy should be taken to Kansas City for treatment.

A general broadcast for assistance was broadcast by the Federal Aviation Administration and "Mr. Goldwater's plane answered from the Anthony, Kan., area, diverted and landed at Hays," said Jerry Morgan, air traffic control specialist at Russell.

"The flight from Hays to Kansas City took about 25 minutes," Morgan said. "He was given priority all the way." The jet landed at Municipal Air Terminal, refueled and took off, staying in Kansas City only about 15 or 20 minutes.

While the airplane waa being serviced, the Arizona Republican walked into the lobby of the terminal.

"I didn't know it was Senator Goldwater untip we arrived at the hospital," Dearinger said. "At the hospital they told me.

"He didn't say who he was on the airplane. He was awful friendly and nice," Dearinger said. "He didn't identify himself."

CLEP Tests Set This Week

POPLAR BLUFF — Persons interested in the possibility of obtaining college credit through the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) will have another opportunity to take the required tests at Three Rivers Community College Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The tests will be administered by John Wood, academic counselor at TRCC. The tests are given each month under his supervision as part of the expanded community service of the college.

The tests are designed to give qualified persons a chance to show that they have the equivalent of some college education in both subject and general categories, even if they never have been enrolled in college.

TRCC is one of a growing number off colleges and universities accepting the idea that college-level achievement should be recognized, regardless of how it was attained. About 100 test centers are operating in the Midwest. Grants from the Carnegie Corporation are the principle support of the program, which was introduced in 1966 by the College Entrance Examination Board.

Those qualified to take the tests may earn up to maximum of 30 hours of credit toward a degree at Three Rivers. The CLEP scores do not guarantee credit at all colleges and universities. Only institutions accepting CLEP scores can turn them into actual college credit. Most colleges in Missouri and neighborning states will accept CLEP scores up to varying limits for credits toward degrees.

Kennedy Stronger Contender Says Gallup Pole

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Gallup Poll says its nextto-last pre-election survey showed that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy would have made a stronger race against President Nixon than Sen. George McGovern.

Nixon led McGovern by 59 to 36 per cent in the mid-October survey. Asked how they would vote if the choice were between Nixon and Kennedy instead, the same persons gave the President only a 52-43 edge, pollster George Gallup said Sunday.

Kennedy's strength showed up as early as December 1971, when a poll showed him to be the strongest potential candidate among Democratic voters. The Massachusetts Democrat trailed Nixon by only 3 per centage points at the time, Gallup said.

Kennedy declined to be a candidate, however; and he campaigned for McGovern after the South Dakota senator won the nomination.

Hijackers Have Rape And Prison Records

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Authorities say two of the three men identified as hijackers of a Southern Airways jetliner were free on bond in a rape case and the third was a recently escaped convict who attended college while in prison.

The escapee, identified as Melvin Charles Cale, is a halfbrother of one of the accused rapists, relatives said.

The other two men, Henry D. Jackson, 25, and Lewis K. Moore, 27, each had been charged with three rapes and questioned in connection with several other assaults on women. Police records show Moore has never been convicted on any charges, and Jackson's only conviction was for a 1971 traffic violation.

Jackson and Moore were described as close friends whose dream of becoming rich turned sour when they were unsuccessful in a $4-million suit against the City of Detroit, accusing police of brutality.

Tennessee authorities said Cale, 21, of Oak Ridge, 9 from the Nashville Community Work Release Center, a minimum-security facility for short-term prisoners. The FBI identified the three as the heavily armed hijackers who forced a DC9 with 30 persons aboard into a marathon hijack odyssey that ended early Sunday in Havana, where Cuban officials reportedly took them in custody.

Detroit authorities said Moore and Jackson have been questioned in connection with nine rapes, two assaults with intent to rape, one gross indecency and one assault and battery. Three warrants are outstanding against them, they said. 9On Oct. 12, the two men appeared in court on two charges of forcible rape and were released on $500 bond. A third warrant on charges of forcible rape was issued Oct. 24, but neither man showed up for the preliminary hearing, police said.

Robert Cohn, a Detroit attorney, said he represented the two men in a $4-million suit charging Detroit police with brutality when Moore and Jackson were arrested on concealed-weapons charges.

Those charges were dropped, but Moore and Jackson insisted that the suit be pressed. When the City of Detroit was dropped as a party in the suit, Cohn said, they realized their chances of collecting were gone, and they grew bitter.

In Knoxville, Tenn., William V. Curd said he was Cale's father and Moore's stepfather. He said the two men were halfbrothers and both were using aliases.

Detroit police said Cale's mother lived at the same address listed for Moore.

How the two men were connected with Cale was not known immediately, but police said Cale'S xmother lived at the same Detroit address listed for Moore.

A Tennessee prison spokesman said Cale was convicted in Oliver Springs, Tenn., of stealing $400 from a departmentstore cash register in December 1970. He was sentenced to five years for grand larceny.

After serving a year in state prison in Nashville, he was transferred to the work-release center in September. While there, he attended classes at Tennessee State University without supervision.

Goldwater Aids Missouri Youth

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater diverted his private jet on a flight from a Wichita appearance to his Arizona home to take a 14-year-old boy who was shot in a hunting accident from Hays, Kan., to Kansas City for emergency treatment.

Tommy Essman of Gladstone, Mo., was struck in the eye by a shotgun pellet while hunting with his grandfather, Earl Dearinger of Kansas City, Kan., near Goodland, Kan., Saturday.

They went to a doctor's office in Hays, where it was decided the boy should be taken to Kansas City for treatment.

A general broadcast for assistance was broadcast by the Federal Aviation Administration and "Mr. Goldwater's plane answered from the Anthony, Kan., area, diverted and landed at Hays," said Jerry Morgan, air traffic control specialist at Russell.

"The flight from Hays to Kansas City took about 25 minutes," Morgan said. "He was given priority all the way." The jet landed at Municipal Air Terminal, refueled and took off, staying in Kansas City only about 15 or 20 minutes.

While the airplane waa being serviced, the Arizona Republican walked into the lobby of the terminal.

"I didn't know it was Senator Goldwater untip we arrived at the hospital," Dearinger said. "At the hospital they told me.

"He didn't say who he was on the airplane. He was awful friendly and nice," Dearinger said. "He didn't identify himself."

CLEP Tests Set This Week

POPLAR BLUFF — Persons interested in the possibility of obtaining college credit through the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) will have another opportunity to take the required tests at Three Rivers Community College Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The tests will be administered by John Wood, academic counselor at TRCC. The tests are given each month under his supervision as part of the expanded community service of the college.

The tests are designed to give qualified persons a chance to show that they have the equivalent of some college education in both subject and general categories, even if they never have been enrolled in college.

TRCC is one of a growing number off colleges and universities accepting the idea that college-level achievement should be recognized, regardless of how it was attained. About 100 test centers are operating in the Midwest. Grants from the Carnegie Corporation are the principle support of the program, which was introduced in 1966 by the College Entrance Examination Board.

Those qualified to take the tests may earn up to maximum of 30 hours of credit toward a degree at Three Rivers. The CLEP scores do not guarantee credit at all colleges and universities. Only institutions accepting CLEP scores can turn them into actual college credit. Most colleges in Missouri and neighborning states will accept CLEP scores up to varying limits for credits toward degrees.

Women's Page

Ann Landers

Decision To Take Pill Is Private Matter

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing for the benefit of "Insomina In Idaho," the woman whose husband is having an affair with his secretary. When she said, "I thought I'd be the last wife in the world to have such a problem," I heard myself talking. She's where I was four years ago. Here's what I did about it-- and it saved my sanity. Maybe it will save hers.

Sit down with a piece of paper and pencil. Make four headings at the top of the page. Label the first column "Personal Strengths." In it list all the things you have going for you: Education, Looks, Money, Skills, Connections, etc. Head the next column, "This Helped Me Before." List all the things that helped lift your spirits when you were troubled: Music, Sewing, Volunteer Work, Church, Painting, Physical Exercise, Change of Scenery. Head the third column "People I Can Count On." List your most reliable friends, a favorite relative, a neighbor, a doctor, a clergyman. Label the fourth column "New Opportunities." List the ways you can get back into the mainstream. Pretend you are a widow. (Emotionally you really are.) Is it a new job you need? A new city? Volunteer work? Back to school?

My salvation was going back to the University. I always wanted to get my degree. I not only achieved my goal but I found new values. Now I go looking for the person who is sitting alone. I sit down and start talking-- or listening. The world is filled with troubled people who need friendship. I learned this when I was in need of help.

The best part of my story is that I kept my husband. Suddenly he was no longer the center of my existence. He began to respect me when I stopped begging for his love, checking on his whereabouts and making him feel like a heel. Today he sees me as a new person. And I guess I am. Just sign me-- Reborn in New York

Dear New York: Bravo! You went to work and did something about yourself instead of demanding changes in others. So few people think of this approach because it's the most difficult one. My heartiest congratulations!

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl aged 17, and I've been going with a guy 20 for over a year- and- a- half. Jimmie and I have decided I should go on the pill. We feel it is the best way to prevent unwanted pregnancy.

I want to tell my mother about our decision but to be honest with you, I don't know how to broach the subject. Mom and I get along O.K. but we have never talked about anything intimate. Also, I'm afraid she might get angry and order me to quit seeing Jimmie immediately, which, of course, I would refuse to do.

Please, Ann, help me find the words. Even though Mom and I are not very close I don't want to deceive her.--- Muddled Mouth

Dear M.M.: My advice is to see a doctor and learn if you should be on the pill. Maybe you ought to be using another type of contraceptive.

Your question as to whether or not to inform your mother is interesting. Why would you want to? Your decision has been made. What do you hope to accomplish? Would the statement be a Declaration of Independence? Or do you just want to shake her up? Think about it a while. Perhaps when you come up with the answers to these questions you'll decide to keep quiet. I hope so.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to this newspaper.

"FIFTY INCHES ?!?!?!?" cries Jessie Taylor, right, president of Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, when sorority sister Jolene Walker, left, called out waist measurements. Members were assessed one penny per inch and per pound for the Mental Retardation Association children's fund drive. Mrs. Walker is chairman of the drive for the Sikeston association. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Bob Patterson on North Ridge Road. Mrs. David Keenan gave the program on poetry, old and new.

Ann Landers

Decision To Take Pill Is Private Matter

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing for the benefit of "Insomina In Idaho," the woman whose husband is having an affair with his secretary. When she said, "I thought I'd be the last wife in the world to have such a problem," I heard myself talking. She's where I was four years ago. Here's what I did about it-- and it saved my sanity. Maybe it will save hers.

Sit down with a piece of paper and pencil. Make four headings at the top of the page. Label the first column "Personal Strengths." In it list all the things you have going for you: Education, Looks, Money, Skills, Connections, etc. Head the next column, "This Helped Me Before." List all the things that helped lift your spirits when you were troubled: Music, Sewing, Volunteer Work, Church, Painting, Physical Exercise, Change of Scenery. Head the third column "People I Can Count On." List your most reliable friends, a favorite relative, a neighbor, a doctor, a clergyman. Label the fourth column "New Opportunities." List the ways you can get back into the mainstream. Pretend you are a widow. (Emotionally you really are.) Is it a new job you need? A new city? Volunteer work? Back to school?

My salvation was going back to the University. I always wanted to get my degree. I not only achieved my goal but I found new values. Now I go looking for the person who is sitting alone. I sit down and start talking-- or listening. The world is filled with troubled people who need friendship. I learned this when I was in need of help.

The best part of my story is that I kept my husband. Suddenly he was no longer the center of my existence. He began to respect me when I stopped begging for his love, checking on his whereabouts and making him feel like a heel. Today he sees me as a new person. And I guess I am. Just sign me-- Reborn in New York

Dear New York: Bravo! You went to work and did something about yourself instead of demanding changes in others. So few people think of this approach because it's the most difficult one. My heartiest congratulations!

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl aged 17, and I've been going with a guy 20 for over a year- and- a- half. Jimmie and I have decided I should go on the pill. We feel it is the best way to prevent unwanted pregnancy.

I want to tell my mother about our decision but to be honest with you, I don't know how to broach the subject. Mom and I get along O.K. but we have never talked about anything intimate. Also, I'm afraid she might get angry and order me to quit seeing Jimmie immediately, which, of course, I would refuse to do.

Please, Ann, help me find the words. Even though Mom and I are not very close I don't want to deceive her.--- Muddled Mouth

Dear M.M.: My advice is to see a doctor and learn if you should be on the pill. Maybe you ought to be using another type of contraceptive.

Your question as to whether or not to inform your mother is interesting. Why would you want to? Your decision has been made. What do you hope to accomplish? Would the statement be a Declaration of Independence? Or do you just want to shake her up? Think about it a while. Perhaps when you come up with the answers to these questions you'll decide to keep quiet. I hope so.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to this newspaper.

"FIFTY INCHES ?!?!?!?" cries Jessie Taylor, right, president of Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, when sorority sister Jolene Walker, left, called out waist measurements. Members were assessed one penny per inch and per pound for the Mental Retardation Association children's fund drive. Mrs. Walker is chairman of the drive for the Sikeston association. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Bob Patterson on North Ridge Road. Mrs. David Keenan gave the program on poetry, old and new.

The Rev. Vernon Self performed the service in which the couple renewed their wedding vows and exchanged gold wedding bands received as gifts from their children.

Mrs. Bailey wore a beige A— line frock trimmed with brown and a corsage of white carnations edged with gold. Bailey's boutanniere was a white carnation.

The couple's eldest grandchildren, Herschell Lee Bailey and Beverly Bailey, were their attendants.

The reception room was decorated in gold and white with white wedding bells suspended above the serving table, which was covered with gold overlaid in white lace. A three- tiered wedding cake, columned in gold, was topped by the gold numeral "50" and was trimmed in gold. It was flanked by two lighted gold tapers and crystal dishes of nuts and mints. Coffee and punch were also served.

TRCC Cracks 100

POPLAR BLUFF — Wendall Copeland and Albri Cassell teamed for 52 points in leading Three Rivers Community College to a 121-64 opening season victory over Southern Baptist college of Walnut Ridge, Ark. Saturday night before a crowd of 1,500.

Copeland, a sophomore from Van Buren, led all scorers for the night with 29 markers while Cassell, a freshman from Charleston, collected 23.

Coach Gene Bess' TRCC Raiders started slow, committing a number of early errors and fell behind 4-0 but rebounded and stormed to a 55-33 halftime lead, putting them well on their way to a convincing triumph.

Freshman Dennis Sims, a star off last season's Class M powerhouse Richland Rebel club, grabbed 17 rebounds and stuffed in 18 points in his debut performance.

Big Terry Walton, the Raiders' big 6-499t-9 senior, got into early foul trouble and saw limited action but managed 13 points and 12 caroms during his brief stint.

Another former Southeast Missouri prep star, Lennies McFerren of the famed Howardville Hawks, contributed 15 points to round out double- figure scoring for the Raiders.

TRCC completely dominated the rebounding and used a vicious fast break in racing to its impressive opening victory.

The Raiders compete in the Moberly Junior College classic Nov. 17-18 with teams from Moberly, Maplewood Community College, Kansas City, Mo., and Clarinda, Iowa.

Scoring:
THREE RIVERS (121)
Johnson 13, Walton 12, Copeland 29, McFerren 15, Baker 4, Brown 4, Cassell 23, Sims 18, Millham 3. TOTALS: FG-52; FT-17; PF-21.
SOUTHERN BAPTIST (64)
Holmes 8, Daugherty 12, Holt 11, Boyd 2, Griffin 2, Beechem 8, Rucker 6, Allan 9, Smith 6. TOTALS: FG-24; FT-16; PF-26.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss ... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss ... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

TRCC Cracks 100

POPLAR BLUFF — Wendall Copeland and Albri Cassell teamed for 52 points in leading Three Rivers Community College to a 121-64 opening season victory over Southern Baptist college of Walnut Ridge, Ark. Saturday night before a crowd of 1,500.

Copeland, a sophomore from Van Buren, led all scorers for the night with 29 markers while Cassell, a freshman from Charleston, collected 23.

Coach Gene Bess' TRCC Raiders started slow, committing a number of early errors and fell behind 4-0 but rebounded and stormed to a 55-33 halftime lead, putting them well on their way to a convincing triumph.

Freshman Dennis Sims, a star off last season's Class M powerhouse Richland Rebel club, grabbed 17 rebounds and stuffed in 18 points in his debut performance.

Big Terry Walton, the Raiders' big 6-499t-9 senior, got into early foul trouble and saw limited action but managed 13 points and 12 caroms during his brief stint.

Another former Southeast Missouri prep star, Lennies McFerren of the famed Howardville Hawks, contributed 15 points to round out double- figure scoring for the Raiders.

TRCC completely dominated the rebounding and used a vicious fast break in racing to its impressive opening victory.

The Raiders compete in the Moberly Junior College classic Nov. 17-18 with teams from Moberly, Maplewood Community College, Kansas City, Mo., and Clarinda, Iowa.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss ... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss ... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

Bowl Bids Near

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The major bowl bids go out next weekend and unless something goes wrong in the next couple of weeks it looks as though the Rose Bowl will have the Game of the year.

Of course, something went awfully wrong Saturday for four members of The Associated Press Top Ten—secondranked Alabama toppled No. 6 Louisiana State 35-21, thirdranked Nebraska had its hopes for a third consecutive national championship diminished in a 23-all tie with No. 17 Iowa State, fifth-ranked Ohio State was upset by Michigan State 19-12 and No. 8 UCLA bowed to Washington 30-21.

Elsewhere, top-rated Southern California was idle, fourthranked Michigan walloped Iowa 31-0 with the likelihood of climbing past Nebraska in this week's ratings; seventh-ranked Oklahoma held off No. 14 Missouri 17-6, No. 9 Texas shaded Baylor 17-3, clinching at least a tie for their fifth straight Southwest Conference crown, and No. 10 Penn State trimmed North Carolina State 37-22.

That left Southern Cal and Michigan as the favorites in the race for the Rose Bowl. The Trojans lead UCLA by one game in the Pacific-8 Conference—they meet on Saturday— and the Wolverines are in front of Ohio State and Purdue by the same margin in the Big Ten and face the latter this weekend and the former the following Saturday.

It was generally assumed that the Alabama-LSU winner would go to the Orange Bowl, but quarterback Terry Davis, for one, said he would "rather go to the Sugar or Cotton Bowl for a change of scenery." The Crimson Tide lost to national champion Nebraska in the Orange Bowl last New Year's night.

Cotton Bowl insiders feel their chances to land Alabama improved considerably over the weekend thanks to Nebraska's slip-up against Iowa State. Actually, the Cornhuskers were fortunate to escape defeat since Iowa State's Tom Goedjen missed an extra point attempt after the Cyclones tied the score on George Amundson's 24-yard pass to Willie Jones with 23 seconds left.

Davis directed Alabama's Wishbone attack to 335 yards on the ground and 157 through the air, the latter total coming as he completed 10 of 18 attempts, including touchdown passes of 25 and 29 yards to Wayne Wheeler.

Nebraska and Iowa State waged a see-saw battle, with Amundson earlier throwing a pair of scoring passes to Keith Krepfle and Dave Humm of the Cornhuskers scoring once and hitting Johnny Rodgers twice for touchdowns.

Michigan sophomore Dennis Franklin passed for two touchdowns and scored one as the Wolverines drubbed Iowa and snapped a Big Ten tie with Ohio State.

Woody Hayes' Buckeyes lost to Michigan State when Dutch kicker Dirk Krijt, making his collegiate debut after starting the season on the junior varsity, booted a Big Ten recordtying four field goals.

"We couldn't do anything in the second half," Hayes said. "We took a real beating out there from a good team.

ADVANCE — John Rhodes scored 18 points and Steve Daniels added 14 to lead the Advance Hornets to a 60-51 victory over Elsberry Saturday night.

Coach Carroll Cookson's AHS Hornets, defending Southeast Missouri and Class S state champions, rolled up a 36-25 first-half lead and held on for the victory.

The Hornets hit a cold shooting streak in the second half, scoring only 24 points and saw Elsberry close within six points late in the game.

Advance made a sweep of the action because its junior varsity squad started the evening with a 69-41 triumph behind the leadership of David Tropf and David Cummings, who pumped in 16 and 12 points respectively.

The Hornets host Oran Friday night.

WHAT DOES NO-FAULT INSURANCE MEAN?

Perhaps you have read about No-Fault insurance. Ultimately, this will reduce the number of claims going to Court for settlement and will speed up payment of insurance claims. It is not intended to reduce the number of claims adjusters.

The U. S. Dept. of Labor states: "Employment of claims adjusters is expected to increase at a rapid rate through the 70's . . ." Adjusting is a profession of great variety and growing opportunity.

Can you qualify? Write today for a local interview giving full name, complete address, phone number, education and previous work experience.

WHAT DOES NO-FAULT INSURANCE MEAN?

Perhaps you have read about No-Fault insurance. Ultimately, this will reduce the number of claims going to Court for settlement and will speed up payment of insurance claims. It is not intended to reduce the number of claims adjusters.

The U. S. Dept. of Labor states: "Employment of claims adjusters is expected to increase at a rapid rate through the 70's . . ." Adjusting is a profession of great variety and growing opportunity.

Can you qualify? Write today for a local interview giving full name, complete address, phone number, education and previous work experience.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Living Doll

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Officer Kelly spotted a curvacious blonde sitting quietly in a cocktail lounge too good to be true. Deciding to investigate, he discovered that the busty blonde was actually a ro- busty male. Without ado, he arrested the female impersonator for violating an ordinance that made it a crime to dress as a member of the opposite sex.

"He looked like a living doll," the cop told the judge in court. "There's not a girl watcher in the country he couldn't have fooled."

"Maybe not," testified a medical expert in behalf of the defense. "But that wasn't his intention. The fact is, unlike a gay guy, he's a true transvestite. Or in other words, he's actually a female trapped in a male body. He feels like a female and dressing like a gal makes him feel natural and normal. Since it was the result of an irresistible impulse, or a lack of will power, he shouldn't be held criminally liable for wearing makeup and female clothing."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict the "living doll" of violating the law? This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a man cannot be criminally liable for a mental defect over which he has little practical control. In this case, concluded the judge, medical evidence indicated that the defendant, in doing his own thing, was not a deliberate act over which he had control.

(Based upon a 1970 Ohio Municipal Court Decision)

STATE TASK FORCE RECOMMENDS NEW JUVENILE CRIME PROGRAM

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri's current system of dealing with delinquent children is "ineffective, uncoordinated, fragmented and costly", a task force on juvenile delinquency for the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council reported Nov. 1.

If the situation is not corrected, the report warns, Missourians will be less well protected, fewer children will be rehabilitated and costs "will continue an upward spiral."

The task force was created because the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council was concerned about juvenile crime and established juvenile delinquency as its top priority.

In the spring and summer of 1971, a nine- member task force studied the problems of the State Board of Training Schools. But in April, 1972, the committee increased its size to 19 and decided to concentrate on five major areas of study. Five subcommittees were created to investigate structure and legislation; prevention; police services to juveniles; courts, probation and detention services; and institutional and aftercare services.

Among the recommendations made by the task force were the following:

STRUCTURE AND LEGISLATION. The task force recommended a division of juvenile delinquency and youth services to be created within the proposed Department of Social Services. The report said it found the present organizational structure inadequate and that "it is beyond the ability of any existing agency with present manpower, statutory and financial limitations to immediately assume responsibility for a comprehensive state- local delinquency prevention and control program."

The division suggested by the task force would be the official state juvenile delinquency agency and would be assigned a variety of responsibilities including delinquency prevention, the operation of residential correction services for adjudicated youth, and an active involvement in creating programs to prevent and treat alcohol and drug abuse problems among the young.

PREVENTION. The task force said the fuller use of citizens advisory groups and the use of school buildings after hours for parents and children would contribute to the prevention of juvenile delinquency. It also called for a second Governor's Conference on the Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency in 1973.

In addition, the task force recommended the establishment of a section of Pupil Personnel Service within the Department of Education's Division of Public Schools to raise the delinquency-prevention potential in the public schools.

POLICE ASSISTANCE. The task force recommended the employment of at least one police juvenile service officer at the state level and the development of statewide programs for orientation of police recruits and for in-service training of officers already on the job. It also encouraged police agencies to develop "policies and procedures governing liaison relationships with juvenile courts and other youth- serving agencies".

The report noted that only 44 police departments, 56 per cent of the total in the state, do not require any training in juvenile work for their officers and only 17 departments require specialized training before an officer is assigned to juvenile work. Another 10 provide training after the assignment is made, the report said.

COURTS, PROBATION AND DETENTION SERVICES. The task force recommended increased state support and inter- county cooperation for the juvenile court system. But rather than an overhaul of juvenile court procedures, the report said, "the task force stresses the need for generally uniform diagnostic, treatment and facility improvements in the years ahead."

INSTITUTIONAL AND AFTERCARE SERVICES. The task force stressed the importance of a "statewide coordinated approach to the diagnosis and classification of delinquent children prior to placement in any residential facility." It recommended the creation of a statewide system of residential treatment services providing different levels of security for different delinquent youth and the establishment of at least one "out of home" placement center for each judicial circuit for youth needing temporary shelter care.

Ron Larkin, chief of the juvenile programs of the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council, calls the report "excellent".

"The present movement is to keep children and adult offenders in their own community, which is what the report recommends," Larkin said. "It also stresses local control which avoids a large super- bureaucratic structure and urges local citizen involvement."

The report will become part of a legislative package that will be introduced in the January session of the Legislature.

Craft Finds Mars Canyons

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A year ago today, a 2,200-pound spacecraft whose trip cost $125 million slipped into orbit around Mars and began making scientific history.

Mariner 9 was the first manmade object to circle another planet. Before it stopped sending data back to earth last Oct. 27, it transmitted 7,329 pictures that changed scientists' ideas about the Red Planet.

"The biggest thing is that Mars is really more earth-like than we expected from previous missions," said Dr. Thomas Vrebalovich, assistant project scientist for Mariner 9 at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here.

"The mission also raised a slim possibility of life there now."

In 349 days of mapping, Mariner told man more about the neighboring planet than he had learned in three centuries of looking at it through telescopes.

A picture emerged of a planet with an atmospheric pressure one-hundredth that of earth, where windstorms rage around the globe at 115 miles an hour, where volcanic mountains spread 300 miles across and a 20,000-foot-deep canyon stretches 3,000 miles.

Officers In Wreck School

Two Sikeston Police officers, Willie Joe Harrington and Wayne Jones, are attending a three- day traffic and accident school at the Highway Patrol Academy in Jefferson City, the police department announced today.

The classes will run today through Wednesday.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — July could go down as the month the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates sewed up another National League East flag. When July began the Pirates led the New York Mets by only three percentage points, but when the month ended they were seven full games ahead of the Mets, who suffered injuries to their top batter, Rusty Staub, and other outfielders and infielders.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Living Doll

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Officer Kelly spotted a curvacious blonde sitting quietly in a cocktail lounge too good to be true. Deciding to investigate, he discovered that the busty blonde was actually a ro- busty male. Without ado, he arrested the female impersonator for violating an ordinance that made it a crime to dress as a member of the opposite sex.

"He looked like a living doll," the cop told the judge in court. "There's not a girl watcher in the country he couldn't have fooled."

"Maybe not," testified a medical expert in behalf of the defense. "But that wasn't his intention. The fact is, unlike a gay guy, he's a true transvestite. Or in other words, he's actually a female trapped in a male body. He feels like a female and dressing like a gal makes him feel natural and normal. Since it was the result of an irresistible impulse, or a lack of will power, he shouldn't be held criminally liable for wearing makeup and female clothing."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict the "living doll" of violating the law? This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a man cannot be criminally liable for a mental defect over which he has little practical control. In this case, concluded the judge, medical evidence indicated that the defendant, in doing his own thing, was not a deliberate act over which he had control.

STATE TASK FORCE RECOMMENDS NEW JUVENILE CRIME PROGRAM

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri's current system of dealing with delinquent children is "ineffective, uncoordinated, fragmented and costly", a task force on juvenile delinquency for the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council reported Nov. 1.

If the situation is not corrected, the report warns, Missourians will be less well protected, fewer children will be rehabilitated and costs "will continue an upward spiral."

The task force was created because the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council was concerned about juvenile crime and established juvenile delinquency as its top priority.

In the spring and summer of 1971, a nine- member task force studied the problems of the State Board of Training Schools. But in April, 1972, the committee increased its size to 19 and decided to concentrate on five major areas of study. Five subcommittees were created to investigate structure and legislation; prevention; police services to juveniles; courts, probation and detention services; and institutional and aftercare services.

Among the recommendations made by the task force were the following:

STRUCTURE AND LEGISLATION. The task force recommended a division of juvenile delinquency and youth services to be created within the proposed Department of Social Services. The report said it found the present organizational structure inadequate and that "it is beyond the ability of any existing agency with present manpower, statutory and financial limitations to immediately assume responsibility for a comprehensive state- local delinquency prevention and control program."

The division suggested by the task force would be the official state juvenile delinquency agency and would be assigned a variety of responsibilities including delinquency prevention, the operation of residential correction services for adjudicated youth, and an active involvement in creating programs to prevent and treat alcohol and drug abuse problems among the young.

PREVENTION. The task force said the fuller use of citizens advisory groups and the use of school buildings after hours for parents and children would contribute to the prevention of juvenile delinquency. It also called for a second Governor's Conference on the Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency in 1973.

In addition, the task force recommended the establishment of a section of Pupil Personnel Service within the Department of Education's Division of Public Schools to raise the delinquency-prevention potential in the public schools.

POLICE ASSISTANCE. The task force recommended the employment of at least one police juvenile service officer at the state level and the development of statewide programs for orientation of police recruits and for in-service training of officers already on the job. It also encouraged police agencies to develop "policies and procedures governing liaison relationships with juvenile courts and other youth- serving agencies".

The report noted that only 44 police departments, 56 per cent of the total in the state, do not require any training in juvenile work for their officers and only 17 departments require specialized training before an officer is assigned to juvenile work. Another 10 provide training after the assignment is made, the report said.

COURTS, PROBATION AND DETENTION SERVICES. The task force recommended increased state support and inter- county cooperation for the juvenile court system. But rather than an overhaul of juvenile court procedures, the report said, "the task force stresses the need for generally uniform diagnostic, treatment and facility improvements in the years ahead."

INSTITUTIONAL AND AFTERCARE SERVICES. The task force stressed the importance of a "statewide coordinated approach to the diagnosis and classification of delinquent children prior to placement in any residential facility." It recommended the creation of a statewide system of residential treatment services providing different levels of security for different delinquent youth and the establishment of at least one "out of home" placement center for each judicial circuit for youth needing temporary shelter care.

Ron Larkin, chief of the juvenile programs of the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council, calls the report "excellent".

"The present movement is to keep children and adult offenders in their own community, which is what the report recommends," Larkin said. "It also stresses local control which avoids a large super- bureaucratic structure and urges local citizen involvement."

The report will become part of a legislative package that will be introduced in the January session of the Legislature.

Craft Finds Mars Canyons

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A year ago today, a 2,200-pound spacecraft whose trip cost $125 million slipped into orbit around Mars and began making scientific history.

Mariner 9 was the first manmade object to circle another planet. Before it stopped sending data back to earth last Oct. 27, it transmitted 7,329 pictures that changed scientists' ideas about the Red Planet.

"The biggest thing is that Mars is really more earth-like than we expected from previous missions," said Dr. Thomas Vrebalovich, assistant project scientist for Mariner 9 at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here.

"The mission also raised a slim possibility of life there now."

In 349 days of mapping, Mariner told man more about the neighboring planet than he had learned in three centuries of looking at it through telescopes.

A picture emerged of a planet with an atmospheric pressure one-hundredth that of earth, where windstorms rage around the globe at 115 miles an hour, where volcanic mountains spread 300 miles across and a 20,000-foot-deep canyon stretches 3,000 miles.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — July could go down as the month the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates sewed up another National League East flag. When July began the Pirates led the New York Mets by only three percentage points, but when the month ended they were seven full games ahead of the Mets, who suffered injuries to their top batter, Rusty Staub, and other outfielders and infielders.

agents opened fire on the plane's tires in Orlando.

Johnson told newsmen in a Miami hospital that the FBI gunfire "really provoked the hijackers. They told me they were going to kill me in front of everyone to make an example out of me."Buchanan said the copilot ducked as the hijacker fired.

Buchanan said the pilot, Capt. Bill Haas of La Grange, Tenn., was "as courageous a person as I ever met. He instilled confidence."

When an ambulance returned Johnson to the Southern relief plane after hospital treatment in Miami, passengers waiting to be flown to their original destination gave him a standing ovation.

The flight out of Miami Sunday night, which retraced the hijacked plane's original course in reverse, marked the end of a hopscotch journey that started when the twin-engine jet was commandeered over Alabama Friday night.

During its commandeered flight, the plane landed at Jackson, Miss.; Cleveland, Ohio; Toronto, Canada; Lexington, Ky.; Chattanooga; Havana; Key West and Orlando, and Havana again for a final landing.

Along the way, the three hijackers demanded $10 million in ranson, threatened to crash the plane into a nuclear facility at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and asked to talk by radio with President Nixon while the plane circled above the Florida White House at Key Biscayne, Fla.

Nixon's deputy press secretary, Neal Ball, said presidential aides "decided that such a conversion would not be helpful."

After the first landing in Havana on Saturday, the hijacker ordered Haas to take off when Prime Minister Fidel Castro refused to meet personally with them.

After a refueling stop at Key West, the DC9 landed at Orlando's McCoy Air Force Base, where FBI marksmen shot four tires. Big chunks of tire rubber and large amounts of oil were found on the runway.

The crew and passengers were shielded from newsmen at Miami International Airport.

Also injured during the marathon flight were Frank Robinson, 47, of Tampa, Fla., who broke his leg while jumping off a wing when the plane landed in Cuba, and Alvin Fortson, 83, of Trumann, Ark., who suffered head injuries and a broken wrist.

In Mobile, Ala., one of the passengers, Arthur C. Tonsmiere, said: "The nicest thing about the trip was watching Cuban soldiers taking the satchel of money away from Henry Jackson and seeing him being marched away with his hands in the air and two soldiers with machine guns right behind him."

Tonsmiere said that at one point Jackson complained that "You know, those fellows (Cubans) didn't treat us right. They treated us just about like George Wallace or Lester Maddox would."

Another passenger, Bruce Barnes of Corona Del Mar, Calif., said, "The way I see it, Sunday, Nov. 12, is the first day of my second life. The first one — my first life — ended somewhere in those 28 hours."

In a first-person article for the Los Angeles Times today, Barnes said that at first he wasn't worried.

"These three guys seemed kind of loose." he wrote. "I figured they would just get some ... ransom money and get down to Havana and get away and then we'd fly back."

By the end of the hijacking, he said "all I want to do now is fly home — and Lord, but I hope there are no hijackers on this flight — and sit down and hug my family and sleep and then hug them again."

defense's 16 lawyers and consultants. Subsequently, the government said the wiretap was for purposes of "foreign intelligence" and was authorized by the attorney general without the supervision of a judge.

Ellsberg and Russo argued that the defense should be permitted to see the log to determine if the government gained evidence through an illegal tap. They also contended there should be a hearing in the federal district court on the wiretap issue.

Byrne, who examined the log, concluded the surveillance was irrelevant to the case. He, and then the U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco, held the defense had no right to see the log.

Ellsberg and Russo's appeal challenged this holding primarily on the basis of a 1969 Supreme Court decision that defendants in a criminal trial are entitled to examine "bugging" records.

The defendants also contended the government violated the Constitution by not obtaining judical permission for its wiretapping. This issue was not considered by lower courts.

The Justice Department, in opposing the appeal on all grounds, argued that Ellsberg and Russo were, in a sense, trying to obtain double-review by appeals courts since they could be expected to raise the same wiretapping arguments if they are convicted.

agents opened fire on the plane's tires in Orlando.

Johnson told newsmen in a Miami hospital that the FBI gunfire "really provoked the hijackers. They told me they were going to kill me in front of everyone to make an example out of me."Buchanan said the copilot ducked as the hijacker fired.

Buchanan said the pilot, Capt. Bill Haas of La Grange, Tenn., was "as courageous a person as I ever met. He instilled confidence."

When an ambulance returned Johnson to the Southern relief plane after hospital treatment in Miami, passengers waiting to be flown to their original destination gave him a standing ovation.

The flight out of Miami Sunday night, which retraced the hijacked plane's original course in reverse, marked the end of a hopscotch journey that started when the twin-engine jet was commandeered over Alabama Friday night.

During its commandeered flight, the plane landed at Jackson, Miss.; Cleveland, Ohio; Toronto, Canada; Lexington, Ky.; Chattanooga; Havana; Key West and Orlando, and Havana again for a final landing.

Along the way, the three hijackers demanded $10 million in ranson, threatened to crash the plane into a nuclear facility at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and asked to talk by radio with President Nixon while the plane circled above the Florida White House at Key Biscayne, Fla.

Nixon's deputy press secretary, Neal Ball, said presidential aides "decided that such a conversion would not be helpful."

After the first landing in Havana on Saturday, the hijacker ordered Haas to take off when Prime Minister Fidel Castro refused to meet personally with them.

After a refueling stop at Key West, the DC9 landed at Orlando's McCoy Air Force Base, where FBI marksmen shot four tires. Big chunks of tire rubber and large amounts of oil were found on the runway.

The crew and passengers were shielded from newsmen at Miami International Airport.

Also injured during the marathon flight were Frank Robinson, 47, of Tampa, Fla., who broke his leg while jumping off a wing when the plane landed in Cuba, and Alvin Fortson, 83, of Trumann, Ark., who suffered head injuries and a broken wrist.

In Mobile, Ala., one of the passengers, Arthur C. Tonsmiere, said: "The nicest thing about the trip was watching Cuban soldiers taking the satchel of money away from Henry Jackson and seeing him being marched away with his hands in the air and two soldiers with machine guns right behind him."

Tonsmiere said that at one point Jackson complained that "You know, those fellows (Cubans) didn't treat us right. They treated us just about like George Wallace or Lester Maddox would."

Another passenger, Bruce Barnes of Corona Del Mar, Calif., said, "The way I see it, Sunday, Nov. 12, is the first day of my second life. The first one — my first life — ended somewhere in those 28 hours."

In a first-person article for the Los Angeles Times today, Barnes said that at first he wasn't worried.

"These three guys seemed kind of loose." he wrote. "I figured they would just get some ... ransom money and get down to Havana and get away and then we'd fly back."

By the end of the hijacking, he said "all I want to do now is fly home — and Lord, but I hope there are no hijackers on this flight — and sit down and hug my family and sleep and then hug them again."

defense's 16 lawyers and consultants. Subsequently, the government said the wiretap was for purposes of "foreign intelligence" and was authorized by the attorney general without the supervision of a judge.

Ellsberg and Russo argued that the defense should be permitted to see the log to determine if the government gained evidence through an illegal tap. They also contended there should be a hearing in the federal district court on the wiretap issue.

Byrne, who examined the log, concluded the surveillance was irrelevant to the case. He, and then the U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco, held the defense had no right to see the log.

Ellsberg and Russo's appeal challenged this holding primarily on the basis of a 1969 Supreme Court decision that defendants in a criminal trial are entitled to examine "bugging" records.

The defendants also contended the government violated the Constitution by not obtaining judical permission for its wiretapping. This issue was not considered by lower courts.

The Justice Department, in opposing the appeal on all grounds, argued that Ellsberg and Russo were, in a sense, trying to obtain double-review by appeals courts since they could be expected to raise the same wiretapping arguments if they are convicted.

Paid any hospital bills lately?

If you have, you're already well aware of the high cost of any illness or accident requiring hospitalization.

If you haven't, consider yourself lucky. But don't press your luck. Hospital costs are continuing to rise. And you or a member of your family could be stuck with them unexpectedly overnight.

I can help you select a Metropolitan Life protection plan that will help provide the cash you'll need in the event of hospitalization. Doesn't it make sense to call me for details?
